

'Training Byte Size' Accredited To Provide CP3P Courses Worldwide

UK training provider delivers internationally recognised accredited PPP training.

Cheshire UK, Wednesday 5th April 2017- A UK based specialist training solutions provider has announced its intention to deliver CP3P courses around the world, after becoming one of the first accredited training providers to offer the certification.

Family run 'Training Byte Size' have secured certification to deliver the internationally recognised CP3P training courses at both foundation and preparation levels, with flexible delivery options that include classroom, online and blended courses worldwide.

The CP3P certifications now available offer clients an invaluable opportunity to demonstrate a comprehension of and commitment to PPP (Public Private Partnerships) good practice in the arena of investment and infrastructure development.

With the rapidly increasing presence of PPP projects on the world investment stage accounting for trillions of dollars (USD) annually, there is an ever growing reliance on developers and investors to be fully aligned with PPP good practice when managing large scale infrastructure development. The CP3P certificate is the ideal platform from which clients are able to achieve internally recognised accreditations in support of PPP projects.

Training Byte Size MD Victoria Graham commented: "We're thrilled to now be offering businesses and individuals with an opportunity to become recognised internationally thanks to the CP3P certificate. It's been designed to ensure a common approach to standards, terminology, processes and documentation in order to open new PPP opportunities up globally, irrespective of which niche a client works within."
